Subject: Election Preparation - Review Kevin Ensley and Brandon Rogers voting records last two years.

I have attended most Haywood County Commission meetings since 2010, along with most work sessions. I grab my clip board and take hand written notes during each meeting. From these meetings and notes, one can infer that there has not been a whole lot of change in the voting records of our current commissioners over that of the Mark Swanger [D] era.

One would think that Kevin Ensley [RINO] has breakfast with Mark Swanger [D] in the mornings, and Mark Swanger clips a leash through the ring Kevin Ensley [RINO] has in his nose, and leads him around. Once again, there has been almost total unity in the voting records of all of our commissioners.

The single exception is that Mark Pless has, on occasion, bucked the trend, and voted differently, sometimes.

Brandon Rogers appears to have crawled up comfortably into Kevin Ensley's [RINO][expletive deleted].

Tommy Long [R] could be replaced by a male manikin and I believe we would be better off. At least we would not be subjected to his folksy family history (It is all about him). I didn't think anyone would be worse than Bill Upton [D].

Take a look at the following two links and judge for yourself.

The primary election is coming up quick. Do your election preparation and read these notes.

The four (4) Republican (well, one RINO) candidates are:

- Terry Ramey [R]
- Jennifer Best [R]
- Brandon Rogers [R] (incumbent)
- Kevin Ensley [RINO] (incumbent)

At this point, I would recommend not voting for the current incumbents.
